Introducing the Los Angeles Maker Faire

Welcome to a World of Wonder!

The Los Angeles Maker Faire, a collaborative showcase with the City of STEM, is a beacon of invention and DIY innovation in Los Angeles. As the largest local event of its kind, it celebrates the gathering of curious and inventive minds.

Since its debut in 2016, the Los Angeles Maker Faire has grown exponentially, offering a stage for over 150 exhibitors, including a vibrant mix of engineers, entrepreneurs, artists and scientists, to display their groundbreaking creations. This festive occasion welcomes a diverse crowd of attendees, ranging from tech enthusiasts to curious minds and families seeking a fun, educational, and inspirational experience.

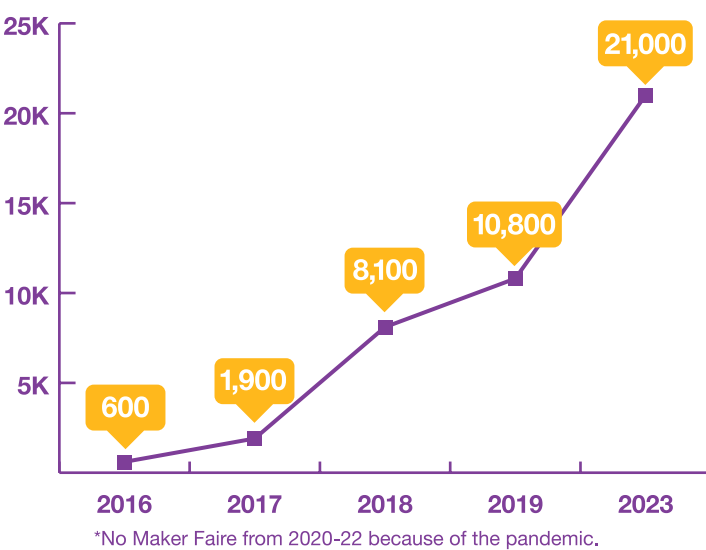

In 2023, the event scaled to new heights at the Los Angeles State Historic Park, which transformed into more than 32 acres of technological wonder that attracted over 21,000 participants. With features like the inspirational opening remarks from Bill Nye, the L.A. Maker Faire has become a landmark event. This year’s event, which will once again be held at the L.A. State Historic Park, will build upon the success of 2023 with even longer hours, more STEAM-luminaries, themed zones like the Robot Pavilion and Young Inventors Pavilion and more interactive experiences, transforming the venue into an even grander hub of innovation and community engagement.

The Makers: Architects of Tomorrow

Who exactly is a Maker? Envision the da Vincis and Edisons of our time, individuals who see the world not for what it is, but for what it could be. Makers are the tinkerers who spend nights and weekends in their garages, the young geniuses coding the next breakthrough app, and the artisans whose crafts marry tradition with the future. They’re the fabric of the Maker Movement, a cultural renaissance of learning by doing, of sharing knowledge and crafting solutions to enhance our world. This movement doesn’t just thrive on ideas—it thrives on making them real.

Additional Ways to Get Involved

In addition to financial sponsorship of the event, the Los Angeles Public Library will also need dozens of energetic volunteers to support the day of the event.

If your company wants to volunteer, please reach out to volunteer@lapl.org

How to Sponsor:

Produced by the Los Angeles Public Library and the Library Foundation of Los Angeles, and in collaboration with the Columbia Memorial Space Center, the combined City of STEM and Los Angeles Maker Faire offers an open invitation to discovery at no cost to attendees and exhibitors. As the city's premier showcase for innovation and creativity, it connects sponsors directly with a diverse audience of professionals and families. Your sponsorship not only supports the continued success and growth of this event, but also invests in the spirit of community and learning that defines this beloved city event.

To support the city's premier maker showcase and connect with professionals and families alike, please visit lfla.org/lamf or contact Imani Harris at the Library Foundation of Los Angeles at (213) 292-6243.
